Union Men Meet On Campus

Ninety union representatives from Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee, three visitors from Indonesia and one from the Gold Coast registered at the 10th Annual Kentucky Labor School which began June 19.

The school which is sponsored by the Department of Research and Education of Kentucky State Federation of Labor, a component of the A.F. of L., conducts classes on all subjects in connection with labor.

The representatives are chosen by the local unions which they represent and are in the main, officers, business agents, and stewards in these unions.

The foreign representatives, who are sent by the various agencies of the U.S. Government, attend the classes that are held, as do the other members, to study the aspects of American labor.

In the past, Germany, Chile, Brazil, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Dominican Republic, Sweden, Burma, Italy, England, France, and Cuba have been represented.

The classes that are being taught by UK professors are: public speaking and parliamentary procedure by Dr. Clifford Blyton, Associate Professor of Speech; labor ethics by Robert Cojeen, Associate Professor of Accounting; and taxation by John Johnson, Research Associate, Bureau of Business Research.

Other classes that are being taught are: labor ethics and labor history by Margaret Dean, faculty, Highland Junior High school, University of Louisville, Bellarmine College; union administration by Sam Ezelle, Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky State Federation of Labor; workshop by Howard Haynes, Business Agent, Dairyworkers No. 783, Louisville; workshop by William Kaufman, Kentucky representative, ILGWU; social and economic problems in the South by George Mitchell, Director, Southern Regional Council, Atlanta, Georgia; labor law by Herbert Segal, Louisville attorney; collective bargaining by Jack Sessions, Assistant Director, ILGWU Training Institute, New York and labor economics by Leo Troy of the National Bureau of Economic Research, New York.

The Kentucky Labor School, in its third year at UK, was born in 1946 on the campus of Eastern State College.

The school is under the supervision of James Wolfe, Director of the Department of Research and Education of Kentucky State Federation. Norbert Blume is the Assistant Director.

The school is for the AFL, but next fall the CIO will be consolidated with it.

The session will close next Friday, July 1.

Ermal Allen Pulls Upset, Takes State's Golf Honor

Ermal Allen, 35-year-old UK assistant football coach, won the Kentucky amateur golf championship last Sunday, defeating Marvin Lear, Lexington, 2 and 1 at the Paintsville Country Club. This was the first championship in which Allen had competed.

The story of his title-winning match against Lear was reported as follows by Johnny Carrico, former sports editor of The Kernel and now golf editor for the Louisville Courier-Journal:

Four down after seven holes, the curly-haired Wildcat backfield coach didn't seem to be much of a match for Lear whose golf game is more impressive for its consistency and smoothness and he is an exceptionally fine putter.

Allen's game is powerful but it got him into all kinds of difficulty in the hollows that wind through the front nine.

Ermal made a marvelous comeback on the back nine in the morning. After the first seven holes, he played the remaining 28 in exact par figures. And that takes intestinal fortitude of a rare kind. He went to the back nine in the morning three down and came out with a one-hole lead at the intermission.

Marvin got even on the first hole of the afternoon swing, but that's when Allen called a halt. He was never down and played most of the afternoon with a one- or two-hole advantage, despite some wild play on the front nine. Ermal finished the 35 holes three over par, not too bad after the exhausting grind of 36 holes a day for four days. Lear was six over par.

The crucial hole probably was the 31st, a medium-sized par four. One down at that point, Lear put his second shot into the fringe 10 feet from the cup. Allen was in heavy grass on the side of a bunker off the tee, out weakly in two, and in the fringe on three. Ermal wedged up six inches for a "gimme" 5 while Marvin could get down in two for a win to go level.

He pitched four feet long with a two iron and missed the cup coming back to halve the hole. He lost the succeeding hole and that virtually decided the outcome.

53 Librarians Seek Answers In Workshop

Library problems held the interest of 53 Kentucky librarians this week, in a workshop at UK which began last week and will end July 2.

An all-day visit to the Library Extension Department at Frankfort and a luncheon meeting at UK with the Friends of Kentucky Libraries were the main-events of this week's activities.

The remainder of the program will include lectures, informal discussions and committee sessions. Of those enrolled, 41 are bookmobile librarians while the 12 others are school librarians.

The UK Department of Library Science is the sponsor of the conference. Two women, who are interested in library work, have presented scholarships to the affair.

Mrs. Renna B. Martin of Lexington, one of the donors, has provided 30 scholarships in memory of her husband, the late Rev. Arthur Martin. These scholarships revalued at $50.

Mrs. Mary B. Gray of Louisville, through a donation, has made possible 11 other scholarships. Only librarians who have not had more than six college hours of formal instruction may take part, under the workshop plan.

Leading consultants for the workshop are Orilla T. Blackshear, director of the Traveling Library of the Wisconsin Free Library Commission, and Miss Clara Sue Hefley, supervisor of the Materials Center of Webster Parish schools, Minden, La.

Assisting in the workshop activities are Frances Jane Porter, director of the Library Extension Division, Frankfort; Margaret Willis, co-ordinator of the bookmobile Project; Miss Hallie Blackburn, regional supervisor of the North-

Two more parking areas have been made available on the UK campus, but spaces are still at a premium, according to University police.

One area, located across from Donovan Hall at Washington and Rose Streets, will accommodate about 100 cars, according to Dr. Leslie L. Martin, Dean of Men. This area is at present being used by residents of Donovan Hall.

Another area, north of Donovan Hall on Boone Alley, is being put into operation.

At present neither of these areas will require parking permits.

There will also be added space in the Washington and Rose Streets' area after the removal of two houses which occupy that ground. With the addition of the proposed area in the Scott's Street Barracks area, the parking situation should be eased by the fall term.

One of the major contributions to the present tight parking problem is the professional men and women who are living in the dorms. They are driving their cars and, therefore, parking around these buildings.

The number of cars on campus in the summer session is almost the same as the fall and spring terms though there are only some 2,400 students in summer school. About two-thirds of them are driving. In the regular semesters approximately one-third of the 6,000 enrollment operate vehicles.

Many of the students are getting tagged frequently, according to the University police. Up to the present "around 100 tickets are being given each day," confirmed Patrolman H. L. Foushee, UK police.

These tickets must be paid before any grades or degrees can be received by the offenders. An automatic fine of three dollars will be imposed on any whose cars are not registered and found on the campus. The SGA rules emphasize that cars which are not registered will be traced. Fines shall be doubled, but not to exceed $4, if they are not paid within two weeks.

Students that do have permits should remember that they are allowed to park only in the area specified on their permits.

A&S Student Leads Talks

Miss Ginger Miller, A & S senior, will lead a discussion on the subject "The Anxiety of Man" at the Presbyterian Student Center, 174 East Maxwell Street, Wednesday, June 29, 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

This discussion, one of a summer series sponsored by four campus religious groups: the Methodist, Disciples, Lutheran, and Presbyterian student fellowships, is open to all students.

"Everyone wants to be happy, but no one is," explained Miss Miller as she commented upon the subject for next week's discussion.

Tour Of Bluegrass Free To Students

A tour, of the Bluegrass Farms for students, will start from the Student Union Building on July 8 at 12:45 p.m. (CDT)

Any students interested must sign for the trip at the information desk in the Student Union Building, before noon, on July 7. Miss Margaret Bruce Cruise, program director, announced. Bus transportation without charge will be furnished, she emphasized.

Faraway Farm, home of the famous Man o'War, will be one of the highlights of the trip. Other farms included in the tour are: Elmendorf, Dixiana, Castleton, Walnut Hall, and Walnut Hall Stud.

UK Gives Hurler First Baseball Scholarship

Joe Dawson, star hurler for Louisville Manual's state high school baseball champions, has been named recipient of the first baseball scholarship ever awarded by the University of Kentucky according to Wildcat Coach Harry Lancaster.

Often the "doormat" of South-eastern Conference baseball and victims of a disastrous season this year when they copped wins only in their first two starts against non-league opponents, Kentucky decided late this spring to begin awarding two scholarships a year in the diamond sport. It marks the first time that scholarship aid has been offered by UK, although most other SEC schools give some scholarships in baseball, Coach Lancaster explained.

The grants are limited to either a pitcher or catcher and must go to a prospective player not already enrolled in the University.

Lancaster said he was very impressed by Dawson's stellar pitching efforts for Manual this season, particularly the big righthander's state championship in the recent tournament at Louisville. In the final game, against Hall High, Dawson allowed only three hits and struck out 17 batters.

The UK coach said he had not definitely decided on who would get the second scholarship for next year.

Rehabilitation Conference Ends Today

Eighty to one hundred specialists from all over the state are in attendance to a Vocational Rehabilitation Conference which began Tuesday and ends today.

"Integration of Rehabilitative Services for Physically Handicapped Adults" is the theme of the event. The conference is being sponsored by UK with the cooperation of the Kentucky Rehabilitation Center, which is located in Memorial Coliseum.

The Office of Vocational Rehabilitation of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Washington D. C., made the conference possible with a grant of $5,146.

Elvis J. Stahr Jr., University provost, presided at the opening session which was held Tuesday at the Funkhouser Biological Sciences Building.

The Rev. H. Harold Snape, David Memorial Goodwill Industries, Washington, D.C., and Willis C. Corthy, director of the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled, New York, were the principle speakers.

Other speakers, in addition to those taking part in the first sessions, follow:

E. J. Taylor, deputy director of the Institute of Rehabilitation, New York University; Dr. Arnold Gesell, Yale University; Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, dean of the UK College of Adult and Extension Education; L. E. Bludworth, manager of the Huttig Sash and Door Co., Louisville; Henry Viscardi Jr., president of the Abilities, Inc., West Hempstead, Long Island, N.Y.

The miracles of science will never cease. Now you can drop cigarettes on cotton without burning the material.

A total of 2,580 students have registered for the University summer session, an increase of 235 over that of last summer.

Marketing Specialists Meet Here

Marketing specialists from thirty-three states, Canada, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico have been meeting on the campus during the past week for conferences and a short course.

A total of one hundred and sixty men and women representing state universities and experiment stations, state departments of marketing and other institutions, the United States Department of Agriculture and agencies concerned with the marketing of farm produce registered here Friday, the seventeenth.

The University and other Kentucky institutions sent about forty delegates to the meeting.

International and national specialists on the marketing problems spoke to the general assembly in the mornings, while in the afternoon workshop groups dealing with particular problems met.

Presiding Friday were Dr. A. J. Brown, head of the Agricultural Economics Department at the University of Kentucky and Willson M. Rountt, assistant state commissioner of agriculture. Speakers that night were W. C. Crow of the Department of Agriculture at Washington and L. L. Bodger of Michigan State University.

At an opening dinner meeting at the Student Union, Dean Frank J. Welch of the College of Agriculture presided and Dr. Leo Chamberlin, acting president of the University welcomed the visitors. Frank Frazier, Richmond, Va., delivered the speech of the evening.

Chevrolet's special hill-flatteners!

162 H.P. V8

180 H.P. V8

See that fine fat mountain yonder?

You can iron it out, flat as a flounder . . . and easy as whistling!

Just point one of Chevrolet's special hill-flatteners at it (either the 162-h.p. "Turbo-Fire V8" or the 180-h.p. "Super Turbo-Fire") . . . and pull the trigger!

Barr-r-r-o-o-O-OOM! Mister, you got you a flat mountain!

. . . At least it feels flat. For here are engines that sing as sweetly as a dynamo . . . built to pour out a torrent of pure, vibrationless power. Big-bore V8's with the shortest stroke in the industry.

So most of the time they loaf. Even at the speed limit they just dream along, purring out a fraction of their strength.

An engineer can understand why they are so hyper-efficient. But you don't have to be an engineer to know that these are the sweetest running V8's you ever piloted. Just come in and try one out!

*Optional at extra cost.

As a historian, Dr. Boyd is known as a distinguished scholar in the field of 18th century history. His greatest activity as a librarian has been as editor of the monumental "Papers of Thomas Jefferson," a 60-volume project which recognized as one of the largest book-publishing undertakings in the history of the country.

He first joined the staff at Princeton in 1940 as librarian. With various experience as a teacher, historian, author and librarian, he played a vital role in the planning of Princeton's Firestone Library, one of the world's unique educational structures and the "largest open-stack library in existence."

This library was opened for use in September of 1948, and was formally dedicated on April 29, 1949 as "the very antithesis of assembly-line education."

Dr. Boyd is a product of the South. He was born in Converse, S.C., and was educated at Duke University, receiving his bachelor of arts degree in 1925. He was a fellow in political science at Duke the year following his graduation and won his master of arts degree in 1926.
